Introduction

he Vietnamese language is part of the Austro-Asiatic famy of languages. In the early development of the language, ietnamese scholars initially used Chinese characters for s official written Vietnamese language. The influx of misonaries from Europe resulted in the romanized form of ie language in the 17th century—one that used diacritics differentiate tones in the language. The use of diacritics ecame fully assimilated in Vietnamese in the 20th century.

here are about 91 million people in Vietnam (as at 2014) nd another three million people in other parts of the world ho speak Vietnamese.

he English language is the first language for approximate-400 million people residing in Australia, Canada, Ireland, ew Zealand, the United Kingdom and the United States of merica. It is also the second language for approximately 00 million people, especially from the former British colo-ies in Africa, Asia and the Commonwealth, and its use in ie business, educational, professional and communciations pheres makes it an almost universal language. Many coun-ies and international organizations use English as their fficial language. With the proliferation of the Internet, it as also become the common language for Internet users.

n the last fifty years, there have been so many changes n both the English and Vietnamese languages in all spects of life. New terms have been invented to meet the development of society, especially in media and communications. The demand for a basic, inexpensive and up-to-date Vietnamese-English/English-Vietnamese dictionary has grown dramatically in recent years.

We are confident that with its 26,000 entries for every aspect of daily living, the Tuttle Pocket Vietnamese Dictionary will become an essential tool for English-speaking users as well as Vietnamese who are learning the English language.

How To Use This Dictionary

'his dictionary is in two parts: a Vietnamese–English secon and an English-Vietnamese section. The entries in each ection are arranged alphabetically, following the English rder from A-Z; and according to the Vietnamese tradition or tones and sequence for the Vietnamese-English section.

Each headword is in color, enabling the user to locate ne word he/she wants quickly. The word class(es) of each /ord, set in italics after each headword, gives the common orm of the meaning the headword has. If there are more nan one expression for the meanings, commas are used.
'or words with multiple meanings, these are separated by emicolons. Square brackets give additional information or larification to the meaning(s) of the headword under study.

The abbreviations used in this dictionary are as follows:

Abbreviations	Full word
adj.	adjective
adv.	adverb
conj.	conjunction
intj.	interjection
n.	noun
num.	numeral
pl.	plural
prep.	preposition
sing.	singular
v.	verb
pron.	pronoun

Tone Symbols

The six tones just described are summarized in the following chart to illustrate the differences between them as they are associated with individual words.

		Mid level Không dấu	High rising Dấu sắc	Low falling Dấu huyền	Low broken Dấu nặng	Low rising Dấu hỏi	High broken Dấu ngã
4	High
3	Mid
2	Low

The Vietnamese language has its national standard syntax, morphology and the tone system, although there are some regional variations in pronunciation and accents. The significant differences in pronunciation and accents between the Northern and Southern people (represented by Hanoi and Saigon respectively) are as follows:

1. There is no difference in the single vowels between Hanoi and Saigon.
2. There are two vowel clusters /ưu/ and /ươu/ which are pronounced /iu/ and /iêu/ by Hanoi, and /ưu/ and /ươu/ by Saigon.

. Differences in the pronunciation of consonants:

Consonant	Sound Hanoi	Sound Saigon	Examples	Pronunciation Hanoi	Pronunciation Saigon
d, gi	/z/	/j/	dạ (yes)	/zạ/	/jạ/r	/z/	/r/	ra (out)	/za/	/ra/s	/x/	/s/	sau (after)	/xau/	/sau/
tr	/ts/	/tr/	trong (in)	/tsong/	/trong/v	/v/	/vj/	vào (to come in)	/vào/	/vjào/
n	/n/	/ng/	ăn (to eat)	/ăn/	/ăng/
t	/t/	/k/	mặt (face)	/mặt/	/mặc/

. Saigonese do not differentiate between the two tones /ʔ/ and /~/; these are pronounced alike.

Ve hope that all users of this Pocket Vietnamese Dictionary—be they Vietnamese students learning English, or English-speaking expatriates, students or business people—will find this a most up-to-date and user-friendly Vietnamese dictionary, for all aspects of daily communication.

ABOUT TUTTLE
"Books to Span the East and West"

Our core mission at Tuttle Publishing is to create books which bring people together one page at a time. Tuttle was founded in 1832 in the small New England town of Rutland, Vermont (USA). Our fundamental values remain as strong today as they were then—to publish best-in-class books informing the English-speaking world about the countries and peoples of Asia. The world has become a smaller place today and Asia's economic, cultural and political influence has expanded yet the need for meaningful dialogue and information about this diverse region has never been greater. Since 1948, Tuttle has been a leader in publishing books on the cultures, arts, cuisines, languages and literatures of Asia. Our authors and photographers have won numerous awards and Tuttle has published thousands of books on subjects ranging from martial arts to paper crafts. We welcome you to explore the wealth of information available on Asia at www.tuttlepublishing.com
